The more details, the better!

Obviously, the more detailed the better! Our staff is very competent and has a great deal of expertise. Therefore, we don't require a great deal of background information. However, we would like a document which thoroughly describes the user interface, data structures, and platform requirements, supported languages, sample screen images, etc. This is an iterative process and we are always able to nail down what we need by a few rounds of meeting with the client.

What deliverables do we supply...?

As described in our profile, payments to us come at scheduled milestones as work is completed. We will provide you with examples of the work completed to date for you to review. At that time, we can discuss the changes which are required or modifications to the original design specs. You are welcome to discuss this with us at any time during the project. On completion of the job we will provide you with full source, technical documentation and development notes from our staff. We expect to receive acceptance or a detailed list of exceptions within seven days of submitting the completed work. Final payment should follow at that time. We guarantee that the product/solution will work as per the agreed on design specs.

We will fix at no charge to you any bugs brought to our attention which deviate from the agreed on design specs. Bugs which are due to omissions in the design specs will be fixed on a T & M basis. We will be delighted to provide maintenance for all work we have done on a T & M basis.
